

The Gainesville Giving Garden is a nonprofit urban farm growing food for underserved families in town. Our goal is to feed five families who have recently left shelter. Thus far, we are entirely volunteer-based and donor-based. We are looking for volunteers to join us on Sundays from 9am - 12pm, as this is the day before harvest pickup for families. During Volunteer Days we will be planting, harvesting, weeding, shoveling dirt, beautifying the garden, and feeding chickens. Volunteers from all ages are welcome. Families with young kids enjoy easy garden tasks, while those who are interested in more physical work are welcome to help with heftier chores. If Sundays are unavailable to volunteers, Friday afternoon/evening Volunteer Days may be opening up.

Please email meghanboriameyer@gmail.com if Friday volunteering is of interest. In the meantime, visit gainesvillegivinggarden.org for more information on this project, how to get involved, and means to donate to the cause!
